

ATHLETICS/High School Addition: A Look Inside

The High School gym floor (at right) is the most evident athletics project in the new addition. It has been sanded down to the point where the lines have been removed, and in some cases, to make the floor level because it was warping. It will be recoated and the lines redrawn.

Other improvements include new locker rooms (below), with individual showers (below right) instead of the old “gang” showers.

In addition, the pool bleachers will be replaced (bottom).

ATHLETICS/High School Addition: A Look Inside

Finally, a couple of things just because they're interesting:

How often do you ride an elevator to a basement (well, these days not many of us are riding elevators anywhere, granted), and thought about how it was able to get there? Never, probably. But, yeah, somebody at some point had to dig that elevator pit. There's the one under construction for the new High School addition, at right.

And below is the old outside wall before the previous High School addition was built twenty-some years ago. The original building was constructed in the late 1950s. Time marcheth on.

ATHLETICS/Capital Project Work: Tennis Courts

Above is a view of the work as it began to repair the damaged and cracked surface of the tennis court.

At right is a close up of drainage being added beneath the tennis court.
